A SPECIAL HALLOWEEN

Halloween evening settled over the neighborhood in swirls of orange leaves and warm porch light. Mia hurried to the front door, where the most wonderful trick-or-treating partner was waiting.

READY, MOXIE?

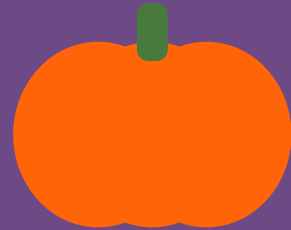

Tonight was no ordinary Halloween.

Tonight was the Pumpkin Parade - and, for the first time ever, Moxie would be there.

THE TOWN SQUARE

Friendly witches, wobbling ghosts, dancing pumpk and caped creatures gathered around a giant lantern.

THE MONSTER STAR

High above the crowd shone the Monster Star.

When it reached the top of the lantern, every pumpkin along the parade route would glow. Mia leaned close to Moxie. 'This is going to be amazing.'

WHOOOOSH!

A playful gust spun through the square.

Leaves twirled. Hats tipped. Banners fluttered. The Monster Star lifted into the air and sailed over the rooftops, trailing golden sparkles behind it.

EVERYTHING BECAME STILL

The parade could not begin without the star.

The crowd looked beneath benches, behind pumpkins, and under the parade wagon.

THE GOLDEN TRAIL

Mia noticed something beyond the square:

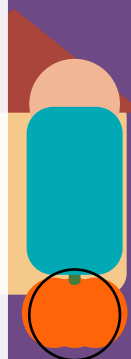

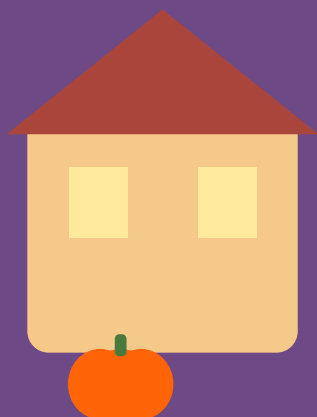

one golden sparkle, then another, drifting down the trick-or-treating street. 'The star went that way!'

THE SEARCH BEGINS

Moxie moved toward the trail.

Mia took a deep breath and followed. The search for the Monster Star had begun.

TREATS EVERYWHERE

The trail curled past a porch crowded with smili

At the bottom of the steps, a little trick-or-treater stared at a torn treat bag. Wrapped goodies were scattered everywhere.

THE TRAIL CAN WAIT

Mia gathered treats while Moxie guarded the good from the tumbling wind. Soon every treat was safe in a spare bag. 'Thank you!' cheered the little trick-or-treater.

ANOTHER CLUE

Near the gate, Moxie stopped beside a star-patte

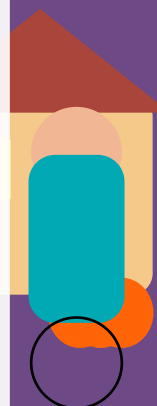

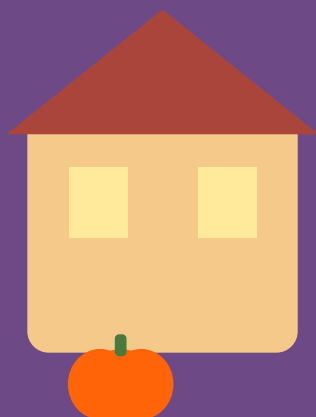

A golden sparkle shimmered on its shiny edge. 'Another clue!' said Mia.

ONE MORE SEARCHER

The little pumpkin wanted to help.

Now three Halloween searchers followed the sparkling trail.

A BRAVE HELLO

At the next house, a small costumed child waited

The porch was bright. The neighbor was smiling. Still, taking the first step felt hard.

TOGETHER

Moxie moved to the beginning of the path. Mia st

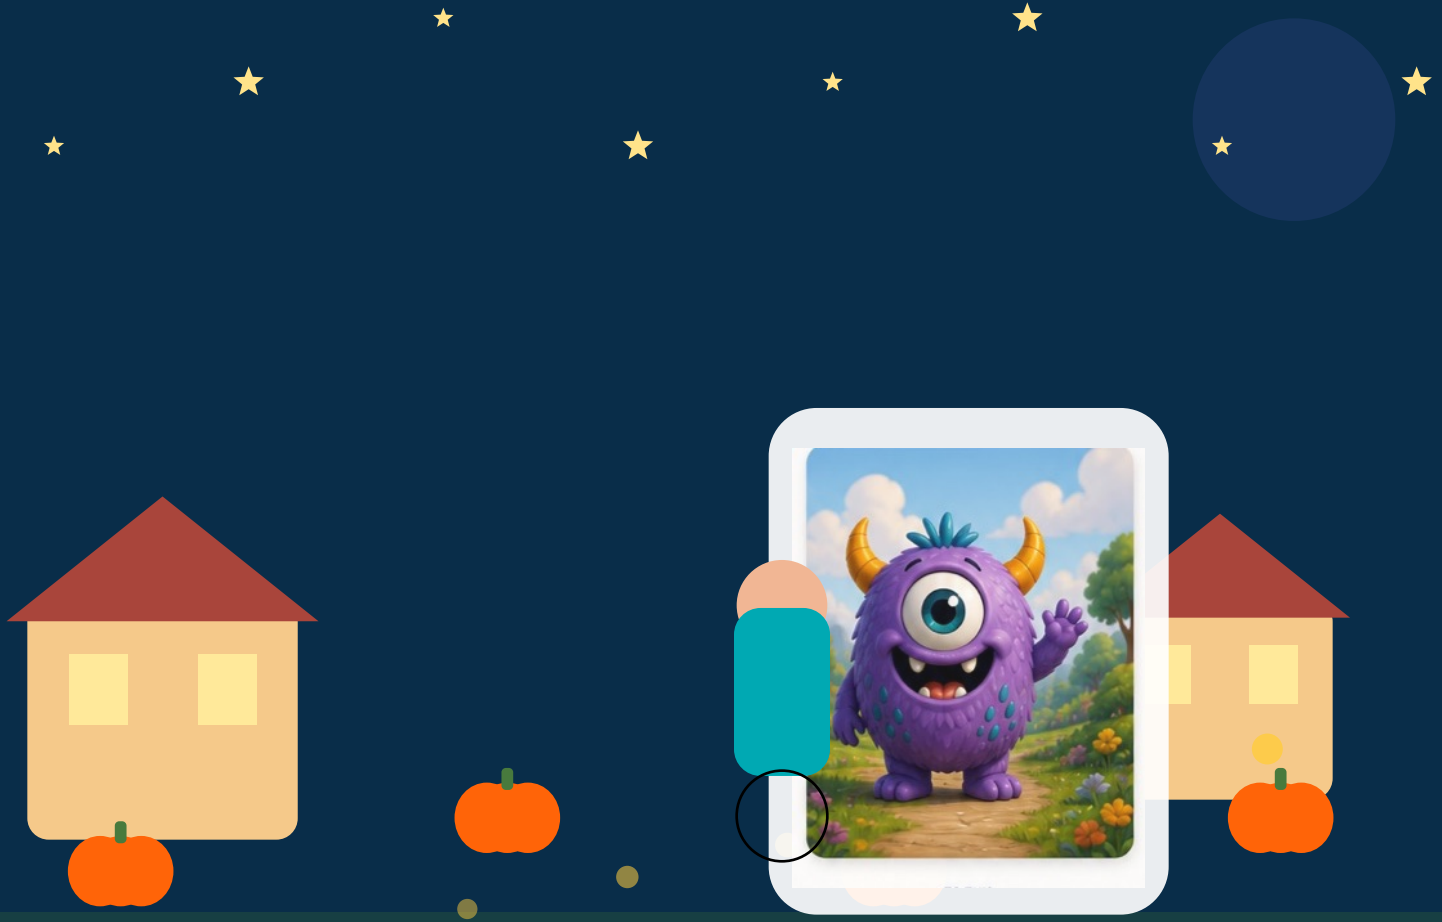

Together, the friends called, 'Trick or treat!' The small child joined in - and discovered a brave voice waiting inside all along.

A FLASH IN THE WINDOW

Not moonlight. Not a candle.

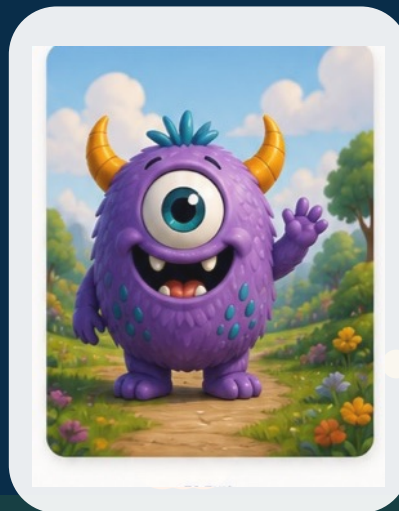

It was the reflection of the Monster Star! Beyond the houses, golden sparkles floated toward the garden lane.

THE GROUP GROWS

The small moon joined the search.

With every kind stop, the group grew - and Moxie moved a little farther ahead.

THE TANGLED SIGN

A parade banner twisted around a fence, hiding t

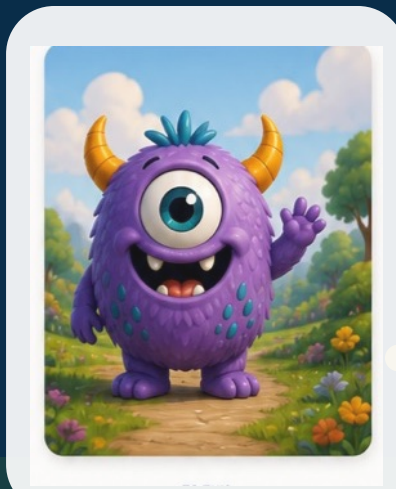

Everyone helped. Mia loosened the ribbon. The little pumpkin held one end. The small moon kept the paper stars safe.

THIS WAY!

Moxie guided the group toward the part still cau

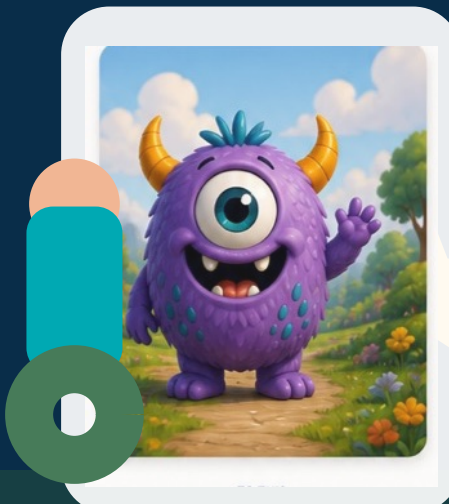

At last, the banner opened: PUMPKIN PARADE - THIS WAY!

THE QUIET GARDEN

One last sparkle drifted beneath a vine-covered

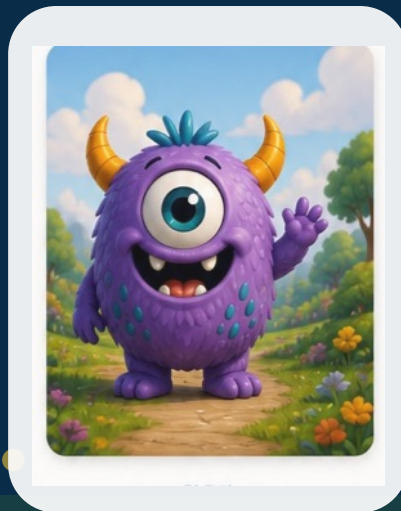

Beyond it, the garden was quiet and dim. Pumpkins rested among tall flowers.
Fireflies blinked over a path of leaves.

THERE IT WAS

At the far end - glowing softly - was the missin

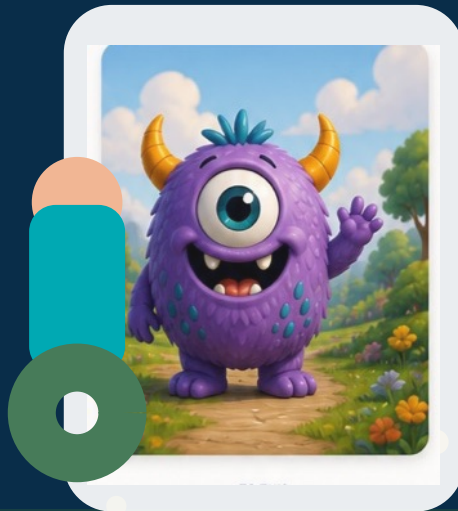

Mia stopped. The garden was not frightening. But sometimes even safe places can feel uncertain at first.

ONE KIND STEP

Moxie moved forward.

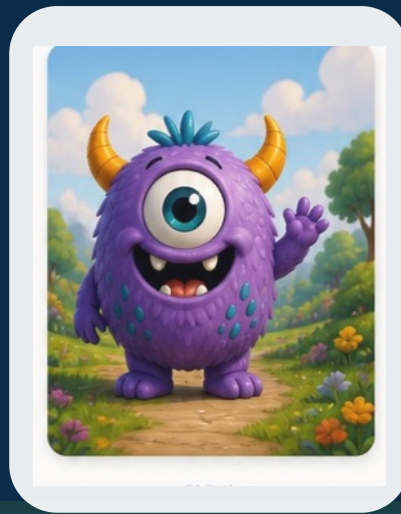

One step into the golden glow. Then another. Watching Moxie made Mia feel braver too.

WE FOUND IT

The friends crossed the garden together until the Monster Star shone before them. 'We found it,' whispered Mia. The star brightened, as if courage and friendship were exactly what it had been waiting for.

BRINGING BACK THE LIGHT

The Monster Star floated from its resting place and followed Moxie through the arch. Down the lane went the glowing star, with Moxie, Mia, and two happy helpers leading the way.

BACK AT THE SQUARE

The crowd cheered.

The parade keeper guided the star to the top of the giant lantern. For one tiny moment, everyone waited.

FWOOM!

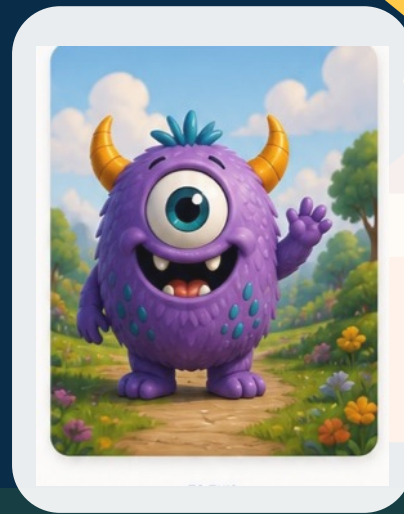

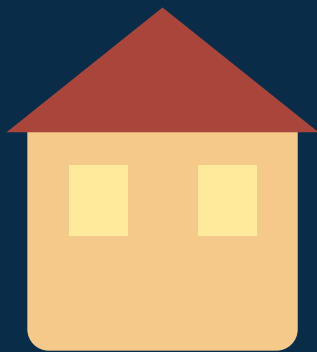

Golden light filled the lantern.

One by one, every pumpkin along the parade route began to glow.

MONSTER OF THE NIGHT

'The Monster Star came home because Moxie was br announced the parade keeper. 'Please lead our parade, Moxie - our Monster of the Night!'

THE PUMPKIN PARADE

Music bounced through the square, and the parade

Moxie led beneath glowing stars. Mia marched alongside the best monster friend in the whole wide night.

HOME AGAIN

Later, Mia placed two favorite treats on a small

'What a night, Moxie.' Outside, the Monster Star twinkled above the rooftops. Being brave had started with one uncertain step. Friendship had lit the rest of the way home.
